

ONLY A MONTH TO EASTER
THE WISE ADVERTISER WILL NOT DELAY, BUT WILL PRESS
HIS CLAIMS FOR A LION'S SHARE OF THE SPRING TRADE.
THE GAZETTE CAN HELP YOU OBTAIN THIS.

The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 34

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1891.

NUMBER 305

LOOK HERE.

There never was a time when we or any other real estate concerns in Janesville could show as large and as de-scribable a lot of offerings in city and Suburban As properly as our Books contain at the present time.

TOBACCO

is doing at good prices, and the nature of enquiring for tobacco lands indicate a strong desire on the part of the grower to own the land and there is wisdom in it. As the judicious investments of the past verify

WE HAVE!

some bargains of this kind.

MONEY TO LOAN

Farms are selling too. What's the matter of taking a look at them?
Always ready to show all sorts of property.

Respectfully,
STEVENS & HOLLOWAY

THE MAGNET

2,000 YARDS OF

RIBBON

AT

10c Per Yard,

WORTH 20 CENTS.

Brooms 10c Each.

Bargains in All Lines.

Our prices on Woolen Goods can't be beaten.

DON'T FAIL TO GET OUR PRICES

ON

Crockery, Glassware, Lamps

THE MAGNET.

Clothing

Buyers,

Attention.

Closing out and Removal and Cost $1 a box in it, but 40 per cent, less than cost to manufacture.

Having purchased of the assignees at the big Boston failure of Whitten, Burdette & Young, for 60 cents on the dollar an entire new

Springstock of Men's, Boys', and Children's Clothing, we propose to give our customers the same benefit—that is

40 PER CENT. OFF

on every dollar's worth of this elegant new stock, which consists of fine Cutaways, Sacks, and Prince

Albert suits, Overcoats and Trousers, manufactured in the latest style, of imported chevrons, imported worsteds, and fine cassimeres notably Children's Kilt and Knee

Pant suits, &c., &c. Call and examine.

Boston Clothing House,

Grubb block, West Milwaukee St.

A. D. GRUBB, Manager.

Myers' Grand Opera House.

MYERS' BROS., MANAGERS.

ONE NIGHT ONLY.

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 7.

A notable production. An overwhelming success. By only authorized company presenting the greatest melodrama ever written.

Under the Gaslight.

By permission of Augustin Daly, Esq.

Great railroad scene ever put upon the stage.

A company of unequalled players.

(Clever, song, dancers and specialties.)

Cost load of special scenery.

Elaborate costumes, etc., etc.

Scale of Prices—Orchestra and Orchestra circle, 75c; Balcony, 50c.

Save of seats commences Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

ARE YOU INTERESTED

IN

BILLIARDS?

Do you enjoy a good game? Remember that

Schaefer & Parker

PLAY AT THE NEW

Myers' Billiard Room, Monday Night,

Admission will be free but in order to see the game

You Must Procure a Ticket

at the hotel office.

Tickets are Free.

DO NOT FORGET that the game will be played Monday night, at the Myers' house billiard hall

"Sturdy March, with brows full sternly bent, rode upon a rain,

The same which over his leopard swam."

We are here to stay

Our Stock is the largest.

We mean the Woolen.

Of any in Southern Wisconsin.

Do not take our word for it,

But look around—

Then come back and see

A Stock worthy of inspection,

Why not go where the Goods can be seen?

Every style and they

The latest?

Kneff & Allen,

TAILORS,

Hatters and Furnishers.

East End of Town.

STATE OF WISCONSIN—Circuit Court

For Rock County.

William Weidner and James M. Cleary,

Plaintiffs, vs. Thomas Madison and John Collin defendants.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue and pursuance of an execution duly issued out of said court upon a judgment in the above entitled action, in favor of said plaintiffs and against said defendants, duly rendered and docketed on the 10th day of March, 1891, and only made thereunder, I shall offer for sale and sell at public auction to the highest cash bidder, on the 10th day of March, 1891, at the County National Bank, in the city of Janesville,

Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 10th day of April, A. D. 1891, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all the right, title and interest of said Thomas Madison in and to the following described real estate: Five and three-quarters acres of land in the north-west quarter of the south-east quarter of section two, range eleven, lying and being in the city of Janesville, Rock

County, Wisconsin, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point on the east line of the west half of the southeast quarter of section number two, in town ship number three, in range ten north and to the place of beginning; or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment with interest and costs according to said execution and the costs and expenses of making said sale, the above described premises to be in subject to the homestead rights of said Thomas Madison in said premises.—Dated March 5, 1891.

GEORGE C. BABCOCK,

Sheriff for Rock County for 1890.

WILLIAM & ELLIS, Attys. for Pls.

PLUMBING,

GAS FITTING

Steam and Hot Water Heating.

PUMPS AND REPAIRS.

Sewer and Cesspool Building

H. E. MERRILL & CO.

Corner Exchange Square

THE BEE HIVE

53 West Milwaukee street. 53

IMPORTANT

Offers new, clean, fashionable and choice merchandise at prices guaranteed to be lower than the lowest. Read our ad-vertisement's carefully and be convinced that it pays to trade at the Bee Hive.

TO THE Public.

Just cast your eye over the following

Extraordinary Bargains:

200 doz. Ladies' Best Black Hose, worth 25c now 10c

150 doz. Ladies' Lisle Thread Hose worth 50c now 19c

100 doz. Ladies' Swiss Ribbed Jersey Vest worth 25c now 8c

60 doz. Ladies' Cotton Jersey Rib'd Vests worth 50c now 25c

Ladies' Muslin Underwear in Variety

AND LOWEST FIGURES AT

THE BEE HIVE

CATCH LINES

Are necessary in the arrangement of every display ad.

and now that

We Have Caught Your Attention

by using one, just finish reading what follows and there is no doubt but what you will become enlightened on four very essential subjects.

Subject 1.

Dress Goods and Trimmings, elegant line Henriettas, Serges, Boucle effects, Plaids, Stripes and all the late novelties in Spring

Suitings. For Trimmings, Gilt and Silver Cords, Bands, Ornaments

Loops, etc., have a leading place; and we also show the new things in colored and black. Gimps, etc

Subject 2.

Wash Goods; novelties in foreign and domestic Gingham, Outing Cloths, Zephyr Flannels

Subject 3.

Linen, complete sample Cloths, Sets, Napkins, Doilies, Towels and Covers at wholesale figures; Table Damask at special

Subject 4.

Muslin Underwear. We announce our annual sale of the entire sample line manufactured by the Standard Manufacturing Co.,

Jackson, Mich. Gowns, Skirts, Drawers, Chemise, Corset Covers,

Infants' Robes, Infants' Dresses at less than cost of material.

If we have made any impression—and we think we have—come in and see what we are doing.

ARCHIE RED.

Don't forget about the Cloaks at half price and the free Muff.

OVER 700 KINDS AND SIZES

FROM $10.00 TO $75.00

ALL BEAR THIS TRADE MARK.

102 West Milwaukee St

We have the most complete line of

Cook Stoves,

Barb Wire,

Nails, and

Builders' Hardware.

In the city, at prices that will surprise the natives, and be convinced. We will not be understood.

Janesville Hardware Co.

Successors to Finch Hardware Co.

IN THE YEAR 1872,

WHILE I WAS A PROFESSOR IN A CHICAGO MEDICAL COLLEGE.

DR. F. B. BREWER,

was my partner in practice. The partnership was dissolved by mutual consent, that he might enter into the traveling business with Dr.

Price. Respectfully, I have to say, I did for his social and business qualities and for his medical attainments, I have great respect, and I am and have such faith in his skill and ability, that after suffering a long time with heart trouble and general nervous prostration from which I failed to be relieved, although many kind physicians had attended me in search of the desired relief, I finally wrote to my old friend and partner, desiring my case. He sent me medicine at once, of which I have been taking four weeks. I feel it due him, as well as those that think of consulting him, to give this testimonial, which is unqualified. I am 61 years old and have practiced medicine 30 years.

J. R. L. UOAN, M.D.,

Oroville, Ind.

THOSE AFFLICTED WITH Diseases of the

Throat, Heart, Liver, Kidneys, Nerves, Brain,

Stomach, or suffering from Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Debility, Youthful Indiscretions, Generals, Old Sores, Tumors, Fits, or any chronic ailment, are invited to call and examine our records of cases under hope of cure had been abandoned. We have visited the same persons every night week for many years. There must be merit in our method or we could not hold the confidence of the people.

EXAMINATIONS FREE.

Twenty-five years devoted to the treatment of Chronic Diseases and thousands of patient testimonies to cure every curable case (and in my examinations, reasonable in my charge,

Until April 1st

You can buy HOMESITES and lots on speculation in any one of our additions at from ten to twenty per cent less than you will be ever able to again.

When Such

PROPERTY AS

Riverside

Spring Brook,

Riverview,

Glen-Etta,

Forest Park.

is selling at our present price you make a mistake to let the opportunity pass. Call and see us,

Yours very truly,

Geo. L. & Sarah H. CARRINGTON.

A MEMORABLE SESSION.

Features of the Fifty-First Congress.

SUMMARY OF THE WORK IT HAS DONE.

Important Measures Which Have Become

Laws—Bills Which Failed to Pass—

The Record and Was Remarkable.

THE ROUND-UP.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The working or business feature was perhaps the most distinguishing characteristic of the Fifty-first congress. Three measures, any of which in intrinsic importance and popular interest would be sufficient for a national issue, stand forth pre-eminent among all others.

First, the McKinley tariff bill, which became a law; second, the silver bill, on which at the first session a compromise was offered, based on monthly purchases of 4,50

THE GAZETTE.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.
Daily edition, one year, $5.00.
Part of a year, per month, .50.
Weekly edition, one year, $1.50.
SPECIAL ADVERTISING NOTICE.
We charge full rates for cards of thanks, obituary, poems, financial statements of insurance companies and all other classes of items not considered news.
We publish, free, marriage, death and obituary notices, without cost; also notices of church and society meetings.
We publish at half rates church and society notices of entertainments given for revenue.

THE GAZETTE
Is the best advertising medium in southern Wisconsin and our rates are based on our circulation, and are cheap when so considered. Prices for local or display advertising cheerfully furnished on application.
GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

TO-DAY'S ANNIVERSARIES.

1770—Mob in Boston attacked the British troops; a detachment fired, killing 3 and wounding 5; this is known as the Boston massacre.
1806—Death of Alexander Volta, discoverer of the principle of the voltaic pile and Italian physicist; born 1745.
1829—Jefferson Davis secretary of war, Caloc Cushing attorney general, William L. Marcy secretary of state.
1892—Battle of Pos Ridge, Ark., begun; it continued till the 8th, and included separate engagements at Bentonville, Littleton and Elk River.
1893—Battle of Thompson's Station, Tenn.; Union lost 1,700, mostly captured, Confederate 600.
1894—Battle at Yuzo City, Miss.; two colored regiments fought bravely.
1871—Proclamation against the Ku Klux in North Carolina.
1877—Richard B. Hayes inaugurated nineteenth president of the United States.
1888—Big Gen. A. H. Terry promoted to fill the vacancy caused by death of Maj. Gen. Hancock.
1889—Death in New York of Mary Frances Booth, editor of Harper's Bazar, aged 58 years.

GREAT FORTUNES AND THE TARIFF.

The New York World seeks to make capital against the tariff by publishing a list of 122 persons living in the United States who are worth $5,000,000 or over. To be more specific, there are in the list two persons rated at $125,000,000, one at $100,000,000, one at $75,000,000, one at $60,000,000, one at $35,000,000, five at $30,000,000 each, four at $25,000,000 each, two at $20,000,000 each, seven at $15,000,000 each, five at $12,000,000 each, five at $8,000,000 each, two at $6,000,000 each, one at $5,000,000 each, one at $4,000,000 each, one at $3,000,000 each, one at $2,000,000 each, one at $1,000,000 each, one at $500,000 each, one at $250,000 each, one at $100,000 each, one at $50,000 each, one at $25,000 each, one at $10,000 each, one at $5,000 each, one at $2,500 each, one at $1,000 each, one at $500 each, one at $250 each, one at $100 each, one at $50 each, one at $25 each, one at $10 each, one at $5 each, one at $2 each, one at $1 each, one at $500,000 each, one at $250,000 each, one at $100,000 each, one at $50,000 each, one at $25,000 each, one at $10,000 each, one at $5,000 each, one at $2,500 each, one at $1,000 each, one at $500 each, one at $250 each, one at $100 each, one at $50 each, one at $25 each, one at $10 each, one at $5 each, one at $2 each, one at $1 each.

A careful examination of the list shows that it does not bear out The World's claim against a protective tariff. The wealth of the thirty-five persons first named on the list totals up to $1,000,000,000. Among the entire thirty-five there are only two who made their money by manufacturing articles protected by our tariff laws. One of these is in the $20,000,000 and the other in the $15,000,000 list. Of the entire 122 names there will be found not more than twenty who made their money in that way, and the aggregate rating of these twenty is less than $142,000,000. That leaves in the list 102 men who made their money in other ways and their wealth totals up the enormous sum of $1,500,000,000.

The doctrine so persistently taught by the enemies of protection that most of the great fortunes of this country have been made by men who took advantage of our tariff laws and so robbed the people seems therefore to have many fatal loopholes. The fact is as it has been a few pointed out that the benefits of a protective tariff go largely to the men who do the work, and who receive these benefits in better wages. This list shows most clearly that the great bulk of the men who have amassed such enormous fortunes in the past have not made their money by the aid of any tariff laws.

We are glad to see that the question of ward boundaries is to be discussed by Janesville business men from a non-partisan standpoint. "Does Janesville need more wards than she has at present?" will be the question up for discussion at Friday evening's meeting of the Business Men's association, and it is to be hoped that there will be a good attendance.

M. De Young, proprietor of the San Francisco Chronicle, is one of the three prominent candidates for the vacant California senatorship. Mr. De Young explains that his object is not the office so much as to prove by personal experience the truth of his assertion that a successful senatorial campaign in the Golden state requires on an average a surplus of $300,000.

Mrs. Cora Bacon Foster, of Houston, one of the most successful real estate agents in Texas, has immortalized herself by voting at the election held in that city to amend the charter, claiming her right to vote on the ground of being a property holder. She is the first woman that ever voted in Texas.

The Grant monument association threatens to begin active work at an early date. Five years were exhausted in reaching the threatening stage. It is not improbable that five more will be required to put the threats into execution.

Increased representation in the county legislative body is an alluring thing but when such a measure brings the possibility of increased taxation, conservative and fair minded people will give the question much serious thought.

It is hinted that one of the immediate results of the death of Senator Hearst will be the appearance of an ambitious young man with a $20,000,000 bank account in New York journalism.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wisconsin, was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Spink, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg. Doctors said he was incurable. One bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by Frank Sherer & Co., druggists.

Half Rates to Oshkosh.
For the state Commission G. A. R. at Oshkosh, the Chicago & North-western Railway Company will, from March 10 to 13, inclusive, sell excursion tickets to Oshkosh and return at half rates, one fare for the round trip, tickets good for return passage until and including March 14. For further information apply to agents Chicago & Northwestern Railway.

An Expensive Postal Card.

"I saw a bit of rumpled postal card the other day that cost the Pennsylvania railroad company $5,000," said a young lawyer.
"It was in the damage suit of Mrs. Nellie Keane against the railroad for $50,000 damages for killing her husband Maurice in July, 1888. Her attorney was Alexander Sullivan, who, in searching the police record of the accident, found a postal card which had been written to Chief Hubbard by a prominent young member of the Typographical union. This man was an eyewitness of the accident, and he wrote to the police denouncing the carelessness of the road in guarding the Thirty-seventh street crossing, where the accident happened. Up to this point the evidence looked very poor for Mrs. Keane, but the discovery of this witness changed the whole aspect of affairs. Mr. Sullivan hunted him up, through him found other witnesses, and after a hot fight with the company in Judge Clifford's court obtained a verdict for $5,000."—Chicago Times.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

A Brilliant Advocate.

JOSEPH H. CHOATE.
Joseph H. Choate, of the New York law firm of Evans, Choate & Beaman, is generally considered to rank all the advocates of the city of New York. He is 55 years of age, and is a native of Salem, Mass. He was graduated at Harvard in 1852, and at the Dane Law school in 1854. The next year he was admitted to the bar of New York, where he has practiced ever since. He was counsel for Elihu Porter in the investigation at West Point.

DIED TOGETHER.

Two Students of a Cincinnati College Commit Suicide.—In Pursuance of an Agreement They Kill Themselves with the Same Revolver.
CINCINNATI, O., March 5.—L. Frankenthal, of St. Louis, and Ernest Salinger, of Philadelphia, two students at the Hebrew Union college in this city, were found dead in their room here Wednesday morning. From notes found on the table in the room it would appear that the two young men took their own lives, according to a preconcerted arrangement, using the same revolver.

The news of the affair has created a great sensation at the college. The two young men were very studious and devoted to religious research and thought, and it is supposed they had become insane. They were inseparable friends, and associated little with their fellow-students. Both were highly thought of by the faculty of the college.

Frankenthal lived at 1137 Dolman street, St. Louis, and Salinger at 18 West Third street, Philadelphia. The parents of both are said to be well to do. Persons in the boarding house where the young men lived and where the tragedy occurred state that they heard pistol shots about 2 p. m. The mystery surrounding the cause of the suicide is being cleared up. Salinger, it seems, had Frankenthal under hypnotic influence, and in any matter that came up the latter followed his hypnotic leader. Students at the college and the people at the boarding house noticed a decided change in Frankenthal the last two months. Both of the young men frequently discussed hypnotism and attended several seances of spiritualist mediums. Frankenthal being a confirmed hypnotist soon yielded over to his hypnotic leader. A diary declaring his belief in hypnotism and his intention of committing suicide. This book was dedicated to Henry Lindman, 305 Fairmount avenue, Philadelphia.

ILLINOIS.

Important Measures Introduced in the State Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 5.—In the house the resolutions of respect to the memory of Gen. Sherman introduced some days ago, were adopted by a rising vote. Among the measures introduced were the following: To prevent the manufacturing and sale of adulterated vinegar; to require railroad companies to stop at least one passenger train daily each way at all stations of over 700 population; to require milk dealers to give bonds and make reports of business; a joint resolution providing for the submission to a vote of the people of a constitutional amendment abolishing the election of members of the general assembly on the minority representation plan.

In the senate the special order immediately after reading the journal was the bill relative to making the first Monday in September a legal labor holiday. The amendment offered on yesterday by Senator Sheridan made the February 13, Lincoln's birthday, a legal holiday, was adopted and the bill ordered to a third reading. Several other measures were ordered to a third reading, and several bills of an unimportant character were introduced.

Wink Versus Wink.
W. Fearless Galt—Why didn't you introduce me to your friend Astorbell just now? Didn't you see me wink at you?
Gorham Ware—Yes, and I would have, my dear boy, with pleasure; but you see Astorbell winked at me first.

$10,000 Found in an Ash Barrel.

A New York rag picker is said to have found $10,000 in greenbacks in an ash barrel. This was a rare piece of good luck, but how much more fortunate is the sufferer from consumption who learns that, although the doctors may have pronounced his case hopeless, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure him. Consumption is a contagious disease of the lungs. The "Discovery," which is the most potent blood-purifier of the age, strikes right at the root of the evil, and there is no resulting ill effect in time. In all scrofulous or blood taints, skin and scalp diseases, old sores and swellings, it is guaranteed to cure or money paid for it promptly refunded. By druggists.

Light Infantry Meeting.

The monthly business meeting of the Janesville Light Infantry will be held at the armory Thursday evening March 14. For further information apply to agents Chicago & Northwestern Railway.

HALLS ARE EMPTY.

The Fifty-First Congress is a Thing of the Past.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The business of the night in the house was confined mostly to reports of the conference committees, and when the weary members ready there was an effort made to pass the bills under a suspension of the rules. By daybreak nearly all the appropriation bills were agreed to except the deficiency bill.

The disagreeing report on the deficiency appropriation bill was called up, the points of difference being the appropriations for the payment of the Central Pacific railroad and for the payment of the French spoliation claims. The report was adopted and a motion made that the house proceed from its disagreement to all the remaining points in dispute. The conference report on the agricultural appropriation bill was presented and agreed to; it reduces from $20,000 to $10,000 the appropriation for irrigation and retains the senate amendment allowing the use of spirits free of tax for experimenting in the manufacture of sugar and sorghum; also the conference report on the bill for a public building at Saginaw, Mich., reducing the cost to $150,000.

At 10 o'clock Mr. McKinley (O.) offered a resolution of thanks to Speaker Reed for the able and impartial manner in which he had presided. Mr. Mills (Tex.) demanded the yeas and nays, and on roll-call every democrat voted against it and every republican for it and it was adopted—yeas, 134; nays, 116.

At 10:30 Mr. Cannon (Ill.) presented the conference report on the deficiency bill, it being the last of the appropriation bills. The report stated that the senate had receded from the Pacific railroad amendment, and that the French spoliation amendment stands. The bill was then passed. Just at this moment the speaker entered and took his chair. He was greeted with a perfect whirlwind of applause on the republican side. After it had subsided Mr. Frey (Ky.) spoke a few kindly words expressing the democratic regard for Mr. Cannon as chairman of the appropriation committee.

At 11:45 Mr. Cannon announced that an error had been discovered in the agricultural bill assigned to the president and presented a resolution to correct, asking unanimous consent for its consideration.

By some means an item of $150,000 for the purchase and distribution of the drought-drought sufferers in Dakota, Nebraska, and in some other localities, which had been rejected in conference, was put into the enrolled bill, and the fact was not discovered until the bill had been approved by the president. Chairman Funston (Kan.), of the committee on agriculture, felt in honor bound to have the matter corrected by a joint resolution, though the life of congress was now counted by minutes. The speaker asked unanimous consent for the passage of the resolution, but Mr. Pickler, exclaimed, "Shame on you! Shame on you! You villain! You villain!" Mr. Pickler quickly yielded to the general sentiment and withdrew his objection and the resolution passed.

At 11:55 Speaker Reed rapped the house order and spoke as follows: "After two long and stormy sessions, in some respects unparalleled in our hundred years, the house of representatives of the Fifty-first congress will soon pass with a completed record into the history of the country, and its works will follow it. What we have done is a large measure. Whether it is political or not, the sternest, the most turbulent, the most unforfeiting passions of the human race. Political action has never been justly viewed from a standpoint. Time and distance are needed for a proper judgment; and the verdict of history is the only verdict worth recording. To state language which would seem to me to be adequate the achievements of this house would not be suitable to this time or to this place. Nor is it in the least needful that I should here and now rehearse old disputes or wave the dying embers of strife past and gone."

"Whether we have disposed of questions of peace with the wisdom of modern statesmanship, or whether we have done so with the things we have done and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I still more confidently commend to you the commendation will be given us in the future—not for what measures we have passed, but for the things we have done, and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to the world at no distant day. Our actions need no eulogies, and all commendation and praise by ourselves would be vain. If our deeds do not praise us our words cannot. Confident as I am ively relieved the worst cases in 24 hours, and permanently cures in 100 days. 15 days rest on trial by return mail for $1. Circular free.

THE PERU DRUG CO.,
Box 100 for the U.S. 189 Wis. St., MILWAUKEE, WIS.

